

Rejista

Nine in ten Nigerian businesses have no papers

We register them with the Corporate Affairs Commission, in the language they actually speak, for a flat fee they can see before they pay.

Nigeria • pilot: Balogun market, Lagos

Demonstration build — no payment is taken and nothing is filed with the government yet.

Scan it now

It opens the real registration form — the same one a trader in Balogun market would use.

Nine in ten Nigerian businesses are invisible to banks and buyers

Registration with the Corporate Affairs Commission (CAC) is what makes a business visible.

~40m

small businesses in Nigeria

---

SMEDAN/NBS — to be verified

~9 in 10

of them unregistered

SMEDAN/NBS — to be verified

Invisible to banks, government and big buyers — the register is the door, and they are not on it.

The consequence, not a survey figure

Not settled yet. Both figures are open items until they are checked against SMEDAN/NBS. A wrong number on a trust slide costs more than a missing one.

Registration is not mainly a cost problem — it is an uncertainty problem

The usual way in

what an owner is choosing between today

An agent who charges what they feel like, takes as long as they take, and stops answering the phone.

The price is not the barrier. Not knowing is.

| Unknown  | What the owner cannot do                     |
|----------|----------------------------------------------|
| Price    | You do not know the price up front           |
| Progress | You cannot see whether anything is happening |
| Recourse | You have no recourse if it fails             |

Three unknowns, not a price tag. Owners stay out because they cannot see the price, the progress, or the recourse.

Answer, verify, grow — the applicant's part takes about ten minutes

The government's part takes as long as it takes. We show which stage the case is actually at — that is the part an agent will not give you.

One flat fee the customer can see before they pay

₦17,500

total to the customer,
quoted before anything is paid

Rejista ₦7,500

Government (CAC) ₦10,000

| Line                  | Amount  | Who receives it                           |
|-----------------------|---------|-------------------------------------------|
| Rejista service fee   | ₦7,500  | Us — for filing it and standing behind it |
| Government (CAC) fee  | ₦10,000 | Paid to CAC, not to us                    |
| Total to the customer | ₦17,500 | Flat, quoted before they pay              |

An agent charges a comparable all-in. We do not compete on price. We compete on knowing the price up front, checking your own case, and getting your fee back if we fail.

Fees as of July 2026. The CAC figure is the government's own charge and moves independently of ours.

Registration is the wedge, not the business

A registered trader then needs an account, a card machine, working capital and cover.

1 Money in

how the trader gets paid

Card & transfer payments, POS terminal, supply to corporates.

2 Money to grow

how the trader buys stock

Working-capital loan, equipment finance, market-association savings.

3 Protection

what keeps a bad month from ending it

Shop & stock insurance, health cover, legal help.

4 Staying right

what keeps the papers valid

Annual CAC returns, tax filing, simple bookkeeping.

We take a share when they take one up — never a cut of their sales. The registration buys the relationship; the relationship is the business.

Out of scope for now: 6 of the 12 services on the roadmap need a partner we have not signed yet.

Eight weeks in one market — against thresholds set before we start

What we run

“Fake the back end, make the front end real.”

|           |                       |
|-----------|-----------------------|
| Where     | Balogun market, Lagos |
| How many  | 100–200 registrations |
| How long  | 8 weeks               |
| Who files | A human operator      |

| Metric                | Threshold |
|-----------------------|-----------|
| Complete the form     | ≥ 40%     |
| Then pay              | ≥ 50%     |
| CAC approves          | ≥ 90%     |
| Certificate delivered | ≤ 3 days  |
| Would refer a friend  | ≥ 70%     |

Miss these and we do not raise. We will have learned it for a few thousand dollars instead of several hundred thousand.

Thresholds are pre-registered: they are written here so they cannot be revised downward after the numbers land.

Two questions could end this — neither is answered yet

1 Can we file on someone's behalf at all?

the one that stops everything

No public CAC filing API exists. Third parties resell lookup of businesses that already exist, not filing. The route is an accredited channel.

---

Week one — before another line of code. If the answer is no, this stops.

2 Does being registered actually help?

the one that decides whether it was worth it

The whole case assumes a registered trader can then reach credit and contracts. Research on formalisation is mixed.

We ask every applicant at 60 days whether it got them anything real — and we publish the answer either way.

Both answers are dated, not deferred. The CAC route is confirmed in week one; the benefit question is measured at 60 days and published either way.

Every risk that can kill this has one named owner

Pascal, Omar, Bello, Olu and Shamin — e-Governance Practicum (ICT4D)

| Owner  | Area                                | What they are on the hook for |
|--------|-------------------------------------|-------------------------------|
| Pascal | Partnerships (CAC path), go / no-go | The week-one answer           |
| Omar   | Product & tech build                | The live form                 |
| Olu    | Operations, field agent, filing     | Every filing in the pilot     |
| Bello  | Budget & unit economics             | The ₦7,500 holding up         |
| Shamin | Compliance (NDPA, DPIA, consent)    | Data handled lawfully         |

We are not the government. Rejista is a filing agent — the certificate is issued by the Corporate Affairs Commission. You could file it yourself; what you pay us for is not having to.

What is built, what it costs, and what we want from this room

“We do not compete on price. We compete on knowing the price up front, checking your own case, and getting your fee back if we fail.”

1

A route into CAC

the week-one question

An introduction to an accredited filing channel. If the answer is no, this stops.

2

The pilot

8 weeks, one market

Enough to file 100–200 registrations by hand in Balogun and measure them against the five thresholds.

A hard read

before we raise

Tell us which threshold you would not accept. We publish the 60-day answer either way.
